THE INTELLIGENCER.

CAPTAIN PLEASANTON'S ADVENTURE WITH A BUFFALO .- A correspondent of the Missouri Domocrat, writing from "880 miles from Fort Leavenworth," says: Wolves were seen frequently during the day, and just as we came on the camping ground, a large one was started. Gen. Harney's greyound caught sight of him, pursued him, overtook him and-never touched a hair. Whether he was afraid of the wolf, or merely friendly to the wolf, I am unable to say. This chase was hardly over, when a herd (seven or eight) of buffalo were discerned about two miles off.-Capt. Pleasanton, Gen. Harney's aid, set out in pursuit, by himself, armed only with a Colt's pistol, and had a dangerous adventure. His urpose was to run the game towards the camp. He succeeded in driving them in the direction intended, when a body of teamsters, desirous of witnessing the sport, came in sight. The buffa to took fright and made for the bills. The hunter pursed them, but he rode a horse which had never before seen a buffalo, and was hard to manage besides. The hunter singled out a bull, and shot him twice, wounding him each ime. By this time he was quite close on him, on the verge of one of those clayey precipices with which the place abounds. The hunted animal suddenly stopped, stretching out his fore legs, and wheeling upon them as on a pivot, thus bringing himself face to face with is pursuers. The horse was unmanageable and rushed on the bull, who set his horns to meet the onset. The collision was fearful .-Pleasanton, conscious of his situation, had disnguged his feet from the stirrups, and just as the shock took place, or perhaps a moment soon-er, sprung upon the back of the bull, from which e rolled down the precipice. The horse havng been gored in the breast and belly, died innounted rider, but two more bullets from the revolver persuaded him to alter his course .-Capt. Pleasanton, I am rejoiced to say, suffered no personal injury. He took the affair coolly, anbuckled the girths of his slaughtered steed, slung the saddle and accoutrements across his shoulders and carried them into camp. No toreador, or matador in the Spanish circus could have a more formidable antagonist or a narrower escape. The grand sport of buffalo hunting is now fairly initiated. Captain Hancock, with the guide, chased another herd for miles.

hot weather:

K., the Qunker President of a Pennsylvania Rail Road, during the confusion and panic last fall, called upon the W- with which the Road had kept a large, regular account, and asked for an extension of a part of its paper falling due in a few days. The Bank President declined rather abruptly, saying, in a

"Mr. K., your paper must be paid at maturi"y. We can not renew it."
"Very well," our Quaker replied, and left the Bank. But he did not let the matter drop here. On leaving the Bank, he walked quietly over to along the line of the Road. Stockholders and depositors flocked into the Bank, making the panic, inquiring "What's the matter?" "Is the Bank broke?" A little inquiry by the officers showed that the trouble originated in the rejection of the bills by the Rail Road. The President seized his hat and rushed down to the Quaker's office, and came bustling in with the nquiry, "Mr. K., have you directed the refusal of our currency by your agents."

"Yes," was the quiet reply.
"Why is this? It will ruin us."

"Well, friend L -- , I supposed thy bank was about to fail, as thee could not renew a little paer for us this morning It is needless to say Mr. Lthe Quaker's paper and enlarged his line of discount, while the magic wires carried all along he road, to every agent the sedative message, "The W _____ Ba take its currency." Bank is all right. Thee may

A "Domestic" Romance. - A few days since an Irish domestic, in the employ of one of the "first families, in the Nineteenth Ward, met with most singular fortune in being united in marriage to a wealthy Southerner. The story s, that the Southerner was in some romantic manner smitten with her charms, and proposed marriage, when he was promptly accepted. The fair domestic went to her mistress, and tearfully resigned the charge of the kitchen, stating that she intended soon to assume the duties of the parlor. She then departed in a carriage, and soon after returned in full dress, proceeding to dispose of her former wardrobe ta her less fortunate friends. She was soon after married to her 'lovyer," who turns out to be a wealthy Southerner, with plenty of property in the Southern States. The names of the parties have not yet transpired .- N. Y. When first we did to maidens kneel, Their hearts alone they cased in steel But now more caution they display, And wear steel armor all the way.

"What is that dog barking at?" asked a fop, whose boots were more polished than his ideas. "Why," replied a bystander, "because he sees another puppy in your boots." 016316 "What," asked Margarita of Cecilia, "what dearest, do you think is really the food of Cu-pid?" And Cecilia answered, "Arrowroot."
